SOUTH CAROLINA ITEMS.

There were 18 deaths from yellow fever in Charleston, for the week ending last Saturday.

Under the Radicals the Charleston police force has cost the city $80,000 a year. Now that the Conservatives are in power they propose to reduce it to $50,000 per annum by making a clear saving of $30,000 per annum.

The Lander (S. C.) Ledger announces the death, on Wednesday last, after a lingering illness, of the Rev. Samuel J. Price, Pastor of the Lancaster and Douglas Presbyterian churches in that place.

The Charleston Courier says: Some of the beams of a newly erected Church on Ladies' Island, Beaufort county, fell in Sunday while preaching in progress by the Rev. K. R. Green, and several of the congregation injured. The more dangerous hurt were carried to the town for medical aid.

The Hartford (Conn.) Times, in alluding to the proclamation of the President, placing a large portion of South Carolina under Martial Law, very correctly remarks: "The injury to this country, of such a proceeding cannot well be calculated. In comparison with it, the moral and pecuniary loss caused by three plunders at Harper's, Hyde county, T. H. Latham, Bostoner."

The Ledger says that 2,300 bales of cotton were shipped from Wilson during September and October.

Wake county has 547,738 acres, valued at $2,321,449, exclusive of town property; which is $1.42 per acre.

Dr. J. Allison, of Morrisville, Wake county, died very suddenly in Raleigh, on last Sunday morning.

The editor of the Asheville Citizen, located on the second floor of green peas on the 27th st.

North Carolina has, by military order, been transferred from the Department of the East to the Department of the South.

A party from Louisville, Ky., are prospecting through the Western counties of this State.

Edgecombe county contains 313,447 acres, valued at $2,268,677, exclusive of town property, which is put down at $223.76 per acre.

Mr. Samuel Barrett was assaulted by two negroes with clubs, in Raleigh on Saturday night, but escaped unharmed and robbed. He failed to recognize the men.

Exclusive of town property, Edgecombe has the highest valuation of any county in the State. The land is in a better state of cultivation, and higher per acre.

Isaac's Advertising Agency classes the Charlotte Democrat among the dead papers. We saw it last night and it was right for a dead institution.

Col. Tate, President of the Western N. C. R. R., has made arrangements with the Central Pennsylvania to complete his road to the Tennessee line.

The real estate of North Carolina is valued at $28,240,500 exclusive of town property, which is valued at $12,900,901, aggregating $41,141,501. The total number of acres is 25,990,514.

The Raleigh Sentinel says: We understand that at a church meeting of the Baptist denomination in this city, it was formally resolved that no member should be allowed to sell intoxicating liquors on pain of expulsion. This is another step towards the temperance reform.

The Raleigh Sentinel says: Saturday the property known as the Cottage Hotel, situated in the Western Ward, was sold at auction, and purchased by Thomas Jennings, for $4,975. The property known as the Sorrell lot, in the same neighborhood, was also sold, and was purchased by J. H. Green, Esq., for $1,825.

ARREST OF COL. McAFEE.—We learn from the Shelby Banner that, on Friday last, Deputy Marshal Scoggins arrested Col. McFee in Shelby, and carried him to Lexington. The Banner says: "We have no learned the charges against Col. McFee, but suppose respectability will be on the side of the charges, as usual. The Colonel will defy them to the last."

In regard to this man Scoggins the Banner says: "As there seems to be some doubt upon the subject, we state for the information of all concerned, that Nathan Scoggins, United States Commissioner, did join the Invisible Empire in this town, in presence of George Blemmer who now resides in town. We withhold the names for prudential reasons. We know more."

The North Carolina Presbyterian in an article on the Raleigh Fair, has the following say relative to the apples placed on exhibition: "And those apples yonder. Talk about the Northern pipples. Northern people don't know what a good apple is, till they have seen a Bancombe raised apple. Look at this yellow as gold, fragment as a violet, with a skin like satin, or its monstrous red neighbor, scarlet and gray, weighing 21 ounces, ripening for Christmas. There are miles of these apples all over Bancombe, selling for 50 cents a bushel. But then we all prefer to pay eight or nine dollars a barrel for Northern pipples." North Carolina apples are without honor in their own country.

We take the following from the Hillsboro Recorder: The man who can have his coffin made while alive, must look at this philosophical. We hear of a case in person in Person county: Mr. Richard Harris, who lives near Bradsher's store, thirty-three years ago turned out a sawsaw tree to grow for the purpose of making time if a coffin, and about twelve months ago the old man had a coffin made and put into it in Roxborough to make his coffin out of it. The old chap occasionally gets in it and stretches himself out by way of showing his neighbors a "good fit." He is one living man who will have no use over his grave about the coffin when dead. This reminds us of an old colon in Morriceboro, N. C., who had a coffin cast of iron before the war. He had his grave dug, and called up with brick—with a magnificent tombstone setting forth his name, date of birth, and fixing his death. "Somewhere about the year 1861." But he was alive and kicking in 1863. The old chap kept his coffin in his own house, and used to shell corn in it. The coffin needed no lock at night, for you couldn't get a negro to go near it after dark.

The President as a Prophet.

On the 20th of January, 1864, General Grant wrote a letter to Hon. J. M. Morris, of Illinois, on the subject of the Presidency, in which he said:

In your letter you say that I have it in my power to be the next President. This is the thing in the world I desire. I would regard such a consummation as being highly unfortunate for myself, if not for the country.

That the "consummation" has been unfortunate for the country no one will question; as to himself he must be the judge, after comparing his present reputation with what it was when he made the prophecy.
